Can be used either for a dinner or supper dessert. Their Waistr. Miss Ellen Terry's waist is twenty-eight inches in circumference, while Miss Mary Anderson comes in a good second with twenty-six inches. Mrs. Bernard-Beere and Miss Eastlake possess equally large waists, the average, however, being twenty-three inches, which is a reasonable dimension. Miss Kate Vaughan, whose water only measures twenty-one inches is said to be the proud possessor of the smallest in the Log Cabin Toast. A touch of fancy, or an unusual daintiness in serving, will often rouse a child's larging appetite. I have found that though the children in our family are not interested in a plate of plain tonsted slices of bread, they are always on the qui vive when a "log cabin " is brought to the table; and this is an especially dainty way of serving dry toast, whether one wishes to eat it from the fingers or to crumb it in a bowl of mlik. With a sharp kulfe, from a firm, semewhat stale loaf, cut alices lengthwise; that is, the long way of the lonf. Trim off all crusts. Now cut, also lengthwise, the slices into parrow strips an inch wide. Toast these straws golden brown and then butter themunless they are to be broken into milk or dipped in cream as they are eaten. Pile crisscross on a hot plate, log-cabin fashion, four square. Serve hot.

Women Who Do Mending.

Several responses have been sent in to the paragraph printed the other day about gentlemen's mending. The Brooklyn woman who asked THE EVENING WORLD to assist her in getting this work has received the letters and probably obtained the employment. One letter has been sent to a woman on Sixtyseventh street, this city. Any person de-siring to have mending done can write to THE EVENING WORLD and the letters will be forwarded.

Women Lawyers. In the legal profession the American woman is making her way against much opposition. As yet only a limited number of States admit her to the Bar, still seven women have been admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States Both the Chicago Legal News and the Chicago Law Times are edited by women lawyers, and several legal associations have been formed, including the Equity Club and the Woman's International Sar Association. In Wyoming and Washington the mixed-jury system has been tried with success.
